Elder Abuse

057-0507 / 30 min

When people see signs or evidence that something is or may be wrong, they believe, "Surely someone has seen that" or "I know that someone is already taking care of that." We often hear the phrase, "I don't want to get involved" or "I can't take care of them." Elder abuse is very difficult because we are dealing with adults who can make choices and decisions. Elder abuse is an important topic for peace officers. They should be able to recognize elder abuse, of the various types of abuse, possible signs of abuse, and the police response to elder abuse.

Calibre Presents Roll Call: Police Use of Force, Part 2

057-0506 / 30 min

This activity, the second in a three-part use of force series, will identify how to make a proper restraint as well as medical issues and concerns resulting from police restraints. The issue of sudden death and a potentially deadly restraint scenario will also be discussed.

Tactical Thinking: Driving Safety

111-0005 / 30 min

When responding to an emergency or chasing a suspect, safe driving can easily take a back seat to emotion and adrenaline. Hazardous, unanticipated road conditions make it even tougher to drive safely. The keys to keeping a cool head and staying safe while in the drivers seat are mental rehearsal, tactical thinking, and anticipating the possible dangers ahead. Join us as we discuss the various circumstances in which an officer operates a patrol vehicle.

SUPPORT

Talk and Be Safe

111-0507 / 30 min

A professional law enforcement officer must deal with many different types of personalities in many stressful situations. The communication process, if handled correctly, can make all the difference in dealing with individuals in the line of duty and can mean the difference between life and death. This course will discuss the communication process, which includes effective listening skills. Contained within these discussions will be the importance of nonverbal communication as well as the assertion process that aids in the compliance of subjects through the communication skills.

Calibre Presents Roll Call: Officer Dragged

057-0505 / 30 min

Working close to motor vehicles every day can lead to complacency. Remember, you are dealing with a 3,000- pound weapon. The driver of that weapon can drag and seriously injure you simply by stepping on the gas. Hear from an officer who survived being dragged and learn how to avoid being dragged yourself.

Interview and Interrogation, Part 1 of 4: Effective Interview Techniques

160-0605 / 30 min

Interviewing people suspected of committing crimes is a critical and time-intensive activity for a police officer. An officer can ask good, relevant questions, but if he or she doesn't take time to listen and interpret the answers, the officer won't be able to ask the right follow-up questions. Join us as we take an up-close look at how you can develop the skills necessary to be an effective interviewer.

Corrections Digest 8: Medical Emergencies and Insurance Risks

186-0063 / 30 min

Insurance risk is a necessary fact of life in corrections. Insurance loss is not. Expert Bill Summers outlines a step-by-step plan to reduce your insurance risks. Also, Dr. B. Jay Anno explains how to prepare for a medical emergency and keep it from becoming a liability nightmare.

Corrections Digest 9: Media Relations and Approach Considerations

186-0064 / 30 min

The key to dealing with the potentially violent inmate and the news media is how you approach them. With the inmate, it is a matter of awareness and caution. With the media, it is a question of perception being in the eye of the beholder.

Violent Offenders Analysis, Part 1: Don't Underestimate Your Advisory

179-0118 / 30 min

All crimes are committed by humans, and at all crime scenes there will be a display of human behavior that lends itself to analysis and interpretation. FBI SSA Alan Brantley gives us an overview of the National Center for the Analysis of Violent Crime and introduces a three-pronged approach to understanding violent criminal behavior.

Identifying the Stolen Vehicle

888-0243 / 30 min

By taking one additional step, patrol investigators can uncover otherwise concealed felonious activity in vehicle theft. Knowing where the VIN numbers are located and how to match them to one another serves to validate the identity of the motor vehicle. When they do not match, do you know what to do? Join us as we learn the ins and outs of vehicle theft from a seasoned investigator.

Profiling Criminal Violators

179-0143 / 30 min

This course will identify the legal considerations and current trends involved in successfully profiling traffic violators for criminal investigation. The latest guidelines for placing an individual under suspicion or surveillance when a factor used is race will be discussed.
