		SHOW #	LENGTH	SYNOPSIS
A+	Roll Call: Physiokinetics and Time Framing	057-1207	30 minute video plus 2500 word course materials	Physiokinetics is what makes the human body function, specifically in terms of power, balance, and mobility. If we understand what makes people have power in their movements, the ability to keep their balance, and how they use mobility, we can affect their power, balance, and mobility while resisting arrest or actively fighting. The concept of time framing is for every "piece" of time officers have, offenders have an equal "piece" of time. Understanding time framing facilitates the officer creating positive time frames while causing the offender to waste or have negative time frames.
A+	Single Officer Patrol	111-1106	30 minute video plus course materials	About 30 percent of police departments in this country have only one officer working per shift. Backup for these officers is either non-existent or may be a long time in coming. Thus, it is necessary to examine the special circumstances and strategies that can be implemented in single officer patrols. This course compares the single officer patrol with the two-officer patrol unit and reviews best practices regarding incidents with or without the use of backup.
A+	Roll Call: Police Shootings	057-1206	30 minute video plus 1500 word course materials	Every year, officers are shot and killed in the line of duty. In an effort to reduce the number of deaths that occur, it is necessary to examine the deadly circumstances surrounding past incidents. This course discusses the statistics surrounding officer shooting situations and identifies factors that are common to deadly incidents. Tactical thinking and mental conditioning are discussed, as well as how officers can better train for a possible shooting incident using "cover and concealment" and "instinctive shooting." Finally, we address concerns for officers who have been involved in a shooting incident.
A+	Emerging Issues in Law Enforcement	111-1206	30 minute video plus 2500 word course materials	Every year, new issues emerge that affect the way successful law enforcement operates. In 2006, we continued to deal with the ongoing problem of new officer recruitment and retention, and reverberations from 9/11 continued to shape the way law enforcement dealt with homeland security, multi-jurisdictional information sharing, and private sector partnerships. In addition, the media continued to influence public opinion about law enforcement. This course looks at each of these issues along with the recent court rulings that affect police procedure.
A+	Roll Call: Formal Protocol: Military Courtesy for Uniformed Police Personnel	057-1205	30 minute video plus 1500 word course materials	Law enforcement agencies have adopted a paramilitary approach; however, not all officers have a military background. Few police academies train and practice with recruits on how to present themselves at funerals and other special occasions. There are certain actions that uniformed officers should perform to show respect for our country and to a fallen officer. This lesson teaches basic military courtesy for use by uniformed police personnel.
A+	Traffic Stops and Racial Profiling: Discrimination Facts	111-0012	30 minute video plus 2500 word course materials	Traffic stops are among the most common interactions between the public and the police. Unfair and illegal practices such as discriminatory profiling can have a major negative impact on the public perception of law enforcement. This course explores the concept of bias-based profiling with regard to traffic stops. What is the commonly held perception among minorities? How does it differ from that of the police? Is discriminatory profiling fact or fiction? This activity identifies the direct benefits of traffic enforcement and discusses why bias-based profiling is illegal.
A+	The Mentally Ill Person in Crisis: Strategic Verbal Responses	056-1205	30 minute video plus 1500 word course materials	Answering a call involving a person in a mental health crisis can be dangerous, especially if the officer has no training in crisis intervention. What should an officer do or say when responding to a call involving a person who is hallucinating, delusional, catatonic, or experiencing a psychotic episode? In such a situation, the officer's regular training in how to utilize his or her command presence could actually make the situation worse. Join us for an informative discussion of some of the behaviors an officer may encounter when dealing with an individual who is mentally ill. Common scenarios are also presented along with strategies for managing potentially violent situations involving the mentally ill.
A+	FIRSTaid: Emergency Childbirth	070-0805	30 minute video plus course materials	Although childbirth is a rare event in your day-to-day activities, you may one day find yourself delivering a new life into the world. This course helps prepare you for that moment. We cover the anatomy of pregnancy, the stages of labor, signs and symptoms of an imminent delivery, management of normal childbirth, care of the newborn, and delivery complications.
A+	Tactical Patrol: Pursuit Phases and Technologies	163-0013	30 minute video plus course materials	This course covers two main topics. First, the phases of a pursuit will be discussed along with the activities and decisions that occur during each phase. Second, since the goal of each pursuit is safely stopping the fleeing vehicle, current and potential vehicle-stopping technologies will be discussed.
A+	Roll Call: Approach of the Emotionally Disturbed Person	057-5003	30 minute video plus course materials	Today, more than 3.5 million Americans suffer from a severe form of long-term mental illness. Add to that number the large pool of people whose mental stability has been impaired by substance abuse, and those individuals temporarily consumed by rage, stress, or compulsive behavior and you have an army of volatile and unpredictable human powder kegs. This course looks at the unique challenges associated with the approach of emotionally disturbed individuals.
A+	Women on Duty	163-0015	30 minute video plus 1500 word course materials	This course looks at women in law enforcement, including self-assessment, communication styles, physiological differences, and planning for career advancement. Join us as we profile two officers and see how they are developing their careers.
