

DECEMBER 2009 - TRAINING CALENDAR

Tested	SHOW TITLE	SHOW #	LENGTH	SYNOPSIS
A+	NEW Open Source Investigations	111-1209	30 minute video plus course materials	The information available on the internet is at your fingertips, but only if you know how to find it. This course looks at how you can use open source information to help you with your investigations.
A+	Confined Area Survival Tactics, Part 4	176-2174	30 minute video plus course materials	In this course, Phil Messina of Modern Warrior continues his training in confined area survival tactics with increasingly difficult situations and technical weapon defense techniques and disarmament. From standing in the aisle to belted in a seat, learn how to use physiokinetics and positive time-framing to create a positive outcome in a confined area.
A+	Clandestine Drug Labs, Part 2	179-0175	30 minute video plus course materials	Hidden, illegal drug labs produce a significant number of fires each year. Often, particularly in rural areas, the lab is discovered only after a fire occurs. These labs contain many flammable hydrocarbons and volatile organic compounds, making such a scene a hazardous materials incident as well as a fire. In addition, some labs are fitted with improvised explosive devices to deter competitors, firefighters and law enforcement.
A+	Interview and Interrogation, Part 2 of 4: Getting the Confession	160-0705	30 minute video plus course materials	Conducting interviews and interrogations is the most time-consuming and difficult phase of an investigation. A successful interrogator must acquire and develop a wide range of skills: he has to become part confessor, part attorney, and part psychologist and he has to know when to assume the role of each. This course looks at some of the techniques that will enable you to become a successful interrogator.
A+	Use of Force: Command Presence	057-0305	30 minute video plus course materials	Command presence is the lowest level of force. Police recruits are taught that the presence of an officer in uniform is the first and omnipresent level of force. Command presence is the first step in keeping an officer alive; it is the perception that the officer knows his business and can take care of anything that comes his way. Command presence is important because it can mean the difference between being challenged and not being challenged. This course reviews the components that make up "command presence."
A+	Less-Lethal Force, Part 1: OC-Pepper Spray Updates	163-0017	30 minute video plus course materials	Major Steve Ijames is the leading authority on less-lethal force options. In this course, Major Ijames addresses the contemporary use of oleoresin capsicum (OC-Pepper) spray. Officers continue to be assaulted with surprising frequency, and OC spray has proven safe and effective in dealing with many of the situations that lead to such assaults.
A+	De-escalating the Use of Force	185-0126	30 minute video plus course materials	The use of deadly force is a topic widely discussed, but what happens when the suspect has begun to comply and deadly force is no longer needed? This course illustrates the dangers when de-escalation techniques are not a part of training. Lt. Dennis Smith demonstrates transition drills to stress de-escalation and shows us a scenario where officers must use these techniques.
A+	Motor Vehicle Theft, Part 1: Detecting the Stolen Motor Vehicle	888-0242	30 minute video plus course materials	This course is designed to provide the patrol officer with a firm grounding in the basics of detecting stolen vehicles. We discuss what to look for while on patrol, the tools of the trade, making the patrol stop, and the completing a theft report
A+	Tactical Groundfighting	057-1007	30 minute video plus course materials	Tactical groundfighting addresses the issues and strategies an officer needs to win a violent confrontation from the ground. Violent confrontations between offenders and officers commonly go to the ground. Tactical groundfighting prepares officer to protect themselves while on their backs or facedown on the ground. Use of the firearm from the ground, falling, recovering from the fall, and throws from the ground are also addressed.
A+	Legal Update: United States v. Drayton: Consent Searches	165-0002	30 minute video plus course materials	Police board a city bus for routine drug and weapon interdiction. As they move down the aisle, they tell people riding the bus that they are looking for drugs and weapons and ask commuters if they have any illegal items in their bags. Several passengers are asked if they can be searched; after their consent, cocaine was found and arrests were made. Do the police have to advise individuals of their right to refuse consent to a search? Find out in this compelling program
A+	Single Officer Patrol	111-1106	30 minute video plus course materials	About 30 percent of police departments in this country have only one officer working per shift. Backup for these officers is either non-existent or may be a long time in coming. It is necessary then to examine the special circumstances and strategies that can be implemented in single officer patrols. This course compares the single officer patrol with the two-officer patrol unit and reviews best practices regarding incidents with or without the use of backup.
